Neurofeedback Specialist Opens New Location in Chattanooga, TN

Chattanooga, Tenn. [Nov. 7, 2023] - TN Neurofeedback, a mental health and neurofeedback therapy practice located in Nashville, announced the grand opening of their new location in Chattanooga. One of the few dedicated providers of scientifically proven neurofeedback therapy in Nashville and around the state, TN Neurofeedback will bring its advanced approach to mental health care to Chattanooga beginning January 2024.

TN Neurofeedback's decision to open a second practice in Chattanooga was driven by the desire to bring neurofeedback therapy to a broader audience. "We have treated people outside of the Nashville area remotely and wanted to make neurofeedback more accessible to people in other regions," says Kelsi Ray, General Manager of TN Neurofeedback. "We are passionate about making neurofeedback more accessible. We believe that our approach provides a unique and highly effective way to bring this valuable therapy to more people."

Kaka Ray, founder of TN Neurofeedback and advocate for greater recognition of the benefits of neurofeedback as an effective and long-lasting treatment for a broad range of emotional and cognitive challenges, holds certifications from BCIA and the International QEEG Certification Board.

Kelsi says, "Neurofeedback has historically not been accessible. It is expensive and not well known - with our model, we expand access to an understanding of neurofeedback."

TN Neurofeedback specializes exclusively in neurofeedback, providing greater expertise and focused care. TN Neurofeedback's team focuses on depth of knowledge and quality of care, and they build relationships with the best local providers to offer services like trauma therapy and medication management to their clients. This model allows therapists in Nashville and Chattanooga to refer patients to a team with extensive knowledge and experience, and gives clients access to focused, highly trained specialists in therapy, neurofeedback, and psychiatry.

With this expansion, TN Neurofeedback aims to continue educating people about the benefits of neurofeedback therapy, ultimately making it easier for individuals outside of Nashville to access the care they need. Clients and patients can expect a low-hassle experience at the new Chattanooga location. They will enjoy ease of access, flexibility in scheduling, and a supportive, warm atmosphere. The team at TN Neurofeedback is committed to ensuring that clients feel at ease while receiving treatment with this specialized approach to mental health care.
